COLUMBIA COUNTY FAIR.

THE LARGEST AND BEST EXHIBITION IN THE HISTORY OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The Exhibits in all Departments were Larger and Grander Than Ever Before.

The forty-second annual exhibition of the Columbia County Agriculturai Society was held on their grounds last week, and was no doubt the most successful meeting ever held by the Association. The weather on Tuesday and Wednesday was very wet and disagreeable, but on Wednesday night it cleared off and remained pleasant the balance of the week.

The display of fancy goods, machinery, fruits, vegetables, etc., were by far the best ever seen on the ground. It was feared that the recent heavy and destructive storms would have a damaging effect on the exhibit of vegetables and fruit, but judging from the display the storms did no damage in some sections at least.

The number of side shows and stands was unusually large. The attention of the visitors as soon as they entered the ground was attracted by large banners and show bills of all kinds. Among the most notable of these side shows was "Noah's Ark." This was worth the price of admission as the several cages of wild beasts were well trained, and taking it all in all was very good. The Engle Clock was also on the ground, and attracted large crowds.

The entries for all the races were all well filled and some of the fastest horses in the country were here.

Among the merchants of our town who had their displays on the ground were Pursel & Harman, who had a very pretty line of lamps, dishware, etc.

The Bloomsburg Car Co. had an exhibit of freight, house and rotary dump cars. They were all designed and built by this Company.

James H. Mercer had a very large display of fine parlor, hall and banquet lamps.

There was plenty of music in the exhibition building, furnished by J. Saltzer, Gomer Thomas, J. W. Guernsey and several others.

An account of the rain, no races took place on Wednesday. The bicycle races were all postponed till Friday at 10 o'clock. The result of Thursday's races were as follows:

Barring a collision between Bessie A. of Centralia, and Nellie B. of Carbondale, in which the sulkies were more or less damaged, and the stepping in a hole by Jim Smith of Cuba, N. Y., which lamed him—the races passed off very nicely, and were as follows, the first four taking the money.

Friday was a beautiful day and people from all over took advantage of it, as between fifteen and twenty thousand people passed through the gate. Every train brought hundreds of people from all sections, and at nine o'clock our streets were crowded. The Wilkes-Barre band furnished the music at the ground which was very much enjoyed by the large crowd in the grand stand between the races.

Result of the bicycle races follow:

ONE MILE NOVICE.

Chas, Hunsinger. Berwick	1st
Will Crossley, Bloomsburg	2nd
A. B. Kline, Bloomsburg	3rd
C. A. Dent, Bloomsburg	4th
Chas. Burns, Berwick	5th
F. E. Depue, Scranton	6th

The first three won the prizes, respectively, scarf pin, value $15; ring, value $10; search light lantern, value $5. Time—3:08¾.

ONE MILE OPEN.

This race was won by C. W. Krick, of Sinking Springs, with S. K. Stutzman of West Reading, second, and H. C. Jewell of this town, third. The prizes were a diamond ring, value $30; diamond stud, value $20; watch chain, value $10. Time—2:44.

In this race there was a collision at the finish between J. N. Harry and C. W. Krick, resulting in a broken collar bone for the latter, although he won the first prize. Robert White, of Scranton, who was in this race, broke his wheel before the finish. Quite a good deal of hissing was indulged in by some of the spectators when J. N. Harry appeared, but considering the fact that C. W. Krick, who was injured, acknowledged the collision was purely an accident, the people should not have shown their feelings in that manner.

Saturday, the weather was somewhat threatening in the morning, but toward noon it cleared off and the streets were soon filled with visitors. An immense crowd was on the ground, it is said that there was a larger attendance than on Friday.

The grandstand was a perfect jam long before time for the races to begin.

The Berwick Cornet Band came down to furnish the music during the day and brought with them a large crowd from up the river.

The races, which were by far the best ever seen in this section resulted as follows:

The races began in the morning when the 2:40 class Pacing which had three heats the day before was put on and finished in one heat, resulting as follows, the first four horses winning the money:

Raven, blk. m. Scranton	2	2	2	1	ds
Allen Dare, Shenandoah	5	6	5	5	4	ro
Frank Pierson, Phila'da	7	ds

This race was a good one and the result proved a surprise to the people, as Hal Pointer was pretty generally considered a sure winner. The horse however was not in fit condition to race and after the first heat fell back. Raven was also thought to be a sure second and maintained that position until in the fifth heat when from some cause he was distanced and taken out of the race. Veta who was not at first much of a favorite surprised all by taking the last three heats. Allen Dare and Rocky P. were ruled out in the beginning of the last heats.

Time—2:16¾, 2-16¼, 2:17, 2:16, 2:17½, 2:20.

2:40 TROTTING—PURSE $250.

Barlow, ch. c., P. H. Daily	2
Bela, b. g, Wilkes-Barre	3
Chas. Shawhen; s. g., Elkhart	4

Time—1:50.

On account of the lateness of the hour this race was not finished, a protest however being entered by the horsemen.

The races were the best Bloomsburg has ever had. The record was lowered from 2:21¾ to 2:16 in the fifth heat of the free for all race by Veta, of Baltimore who came in first.

Thus ended one of the best fairs the society has ever held.

The Supreme Court sitting at Pittsburg has heard the first appeal from the decision of the Superior Court. It was in the suit of the Commissioners for use of Cambria county against J. C. Lloyd, one of the County Commissioners. It is an action to determine under what act of Assembly County Commissioners shall be paid. The defendant claims the act of 1889, and the plaintiff the act of 1872. The Superior Court confirmed the judgment of the court below, and the defendant took an appeal to the Supreme Court on the question of the constitutionality of the act of 1872.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

WHEREAS, it has pleased our great Allwise Father to bereave so sorely our Assistant Superintendent, H. W. Phillips, in taking from him his young wife, Lillian May Phillips, therefore be it

Resolved:—That we, the teachers and pupils of the Espy Methodist Sunday School, extend to our dear brother and fellow worker our deepest sympathy, assuring him that we, too, feel keenly the loss of our dear sister.

Resolved:—That while his loss is such an unspeakable one, yet God, who doeth all things well, never calls upon any of his children to endure more than they are able, and will surely help them to bear the chastening which he inflicts upon those whom he loves.

Resolved:—That our brother may find a deep source of comfort in the numberless promises of the resurrection which are found in God's Word, knowing that our sister's faith was a living one as regards these sweet promises.

Resolved:—That while his and our loss is a very great one, it must be partly compensated for in realizing that it is her infinite gain to be so soon with our dear Savior, away from all sorrow, pain and weeping, where all is joy and peace and gladness.

Resolved:—That we remind him that after all, the separation at its longest will be immeasurably short compared with the eternity which will follow the meeting beyond the river where all our loved ones who have gone before wait to greet us.

Resolved:—That a copy of these resolutions be handed Mr. Phillips, and they be published in the county papers.

The citizens of Mt. Carmel have entered a protest against an ordinance which the Council passed. They claim that the Constable makes too much money. The ordinance prohibits cows from roaming the streets. He made $30 one day last week, and with a little effort on his part his salary would reach up into the thousands.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

A baby bee, out for a fly one day,
Found a garden of peaches fair;
"Oh, why did my mother unkindly say,
Not a peach must I touch? I declare
No flower could have a color more gay,
A flavor more dainty and rare.

"Now here's one dead ripe, and a hole in it, too,
That a bird or a bug has made;
Ma couldn't object, supposing she knew,
Which she won't, for I'm not afraid,
But I shall be hidden entirely from view
While I'm eating inside in the shade."

A little boy went for a walk one day
In an orchard of peaches fair;
"Oh, why did my mother unkindly say,
Not a peach must I pick? I declare
There's nothing I have in the eating way
That's half so dainty and rare.

"Ma couldn't have known how ripe they are—
Now that one, so rosy and bright;
I won't disobey her, won't 'pick' it, nor 'jar,'
For I know that wouldn't be right;
But 'tain't very big, nor up very far,
So I'll take it right off with a bite."

Oh, poor little bee, and, oh, poor little boy!
Their solos unite in a chorus;
They tell us how brief is forbidden joy,
How unseen the dangers that floor us,
How watchful the senses we have to employ
When doing what isn't decorus.

A BEAR STORY.

Hudson's Bay is not, perhaps, the pleasantest of places in the depth of winter. That is, however, the time when it presents most attractions to those who visit it, for the cold drives the animals from their hiding places, and the difficulty of finding anything to eat, makes them bold in the pursuit of food, even to the extent of snatching it from the jaws of a trap.

A small party of trappers were seated around a camp-fire one night, a few years ago. They had a blaze big enough to attract all the animals of the forest, for it was bitterly cold and fuel cost nothing.

"I saw bear tracks to-day," remarked Coppee, a French Canadian. "I shall hunt him to-morrow."

"You're always seeing tracks," said Martin, a burly Englishman, "but you never seem to come up with the bear. Foxes are more in your line."

Coppee looked as if he would like to have retorted with more than words. But he was a good-natured little fellow, and could make allowance for Martin's want of amiability.

"I shall try and find this one," was his reply.

His eye twinkled with joyful anticipation, for he had discovered the home of the bear—a discovery which he meant to keep secret.

"You can't go to-morrow, Coppee," put in Hopkins, an American. "You're to go to the cache. The agent will be along soon."

"Ah, so I have," replied Coppee, dolorously. "Never mind; my bear will keep for a day or two."

"Where's his den?" inquired Martin, carelessly.

"Ah, wouldn't you like to know?" was Coppee's evasive reply. "No, my friend, I mean to pay my morning call by himself."

"That bear will live a lonely life, then—that's all I can say," answered Martin, rising to throw more pine-knots on the fire.

"We shall see," said Coppee. "Only don't expect a paw all to yourself when I bring the skin home."

"I'll eat the skin when you bring it," responded Martin, laughing.

Coppee made no reply, but his face showed the determination to carry out his intention of killing Bruin.

Soon after all the trappers rolled themselves in their blankets and dropped off to sleep.

They woke early. The fire still smouldered. They made a hunter's breakfast, and each prepared to go his own direction.

"Where are you off, Martin?" asked Hopkins.

"Up the ravine. I shall be back early to-day. Look out for that bear, Coppee."

"I shall not call on him to-day, I'm off for the cache."

"Well, it's all the same for the bear," was Martin's remark, as he shouldered his gun and strode off.

Coppee gave one of his light-hearted laughs and started in the opposite direction.

"He is angry that he did not find the tracks himself," he thought. "Poor Martin! he has had bad luck this season. So have I, though, till now; but when I've shot this bear I shan't be able to complain."

He walked rapidly along, for he had a long journey before him. The "cache" he was about to visit was a hole beside a tree, carefully boarded up and covered over. In this were hidden the skins of the animals they captured.

At stated times the company's agent came around and took them away. One of his visits was nearly due, and Coppee had to make a preliminary inspection of the cache.

He was about four miles from the camp, swinging along with a hunter's stride, when he stopped as if he had been shot.

A minute after he was retracing his steps at a long trot. An unwelcome thought had struck him.

Martin had said that he was going to the ravine. Coppee knew that "the ravine" meant a certain gorge between some rocky hills, a part of the district which Martin rarely visited. It was to this very ravine that he had tracked the bear on the previous day.

By this time it was quite possible Martin had come across the tracks, and, forsaking his traps, had set off to trace where they led. If so, he would never rest content till he had killed the bear. And that bear fairly belonged to him, Coppee.

That would never do. How could he endure the chaff of the camp after his tirade of the previous evening? No; he was resolved that, come what might, he would be first on the spot, and not leave to Martin the chance of killing the largest bear he had seen signs of during the whole season.

So the little Frenchman plowed his way along, taking a short cut through the woods. What was it made him pause for a moment and then redouble his pace?

It was this. He remembered suddenly that all the tracks leading to the bear's cave were on the side of the ravine farthest from the camp. He had come across them on his way home, but Martin, entering the ravine from the other end, would see nothing to raise his suspicions till he reached the cave. The bear would have scented him long before, and the terrible fear which crossed Coppee's mind was that Martin would be attacked unawares. Such an unequal contest could have but one result.

Coppee forgot all about his own desire to kill the bear; his one hope now was that Martin might have succeeded in doing so. Never had he run so fast in his life. He pelted over the snow, choosing, where possible, the ground sheltered from the drift.

It seemed an age before the ravine was reached. He leaped from rock to rock with more agility than prudence.

One more turn, and he would be in sight of the cave.

He was at the very corner when a terrible cry reached his ears. He ran forward to see his worst fears realized. An enormous bear had rushed on Martin, who had not even time to fire his weapon, was dashed from his hand, and he was thrown violently to the ground.

Coppee raised a shout, hoping to turn the beast's attention. His idea bore fruit—the bear turned in his direction for a moment, giving Martin time to draw his long hunter's knife; but, before he could use it, the bear, with an angry growl, sprang on him again.

Another moment and it would have been all over, for the animal's enormous weight prevented Martin from even turning. But Coppee had made the most of the few seconds, and was now but half a dozen yards off.

He took a hasty aim, all trembling as he was with his tremendous exertions; the ball hit the bear under the shoulder. With a fearful growl, he sprang off Martin's body and began biting the wounded part.

Now came Martin's turn. With a temerity born of a hunter's life, he raised himself on his hand and plunged his knife into the body of his foe. It found his heart.

Martin rose to his feet and for the first time saw Coppee.

"I killed that bear," he said.

Coppee looked at him in astonishment for a moment, and then burst into one of his merry laughs.

"You are right," he said; "you killed the bear. I came too late."

"No, you didn't," replied Martin "you came at just the nick of time. If it hadn't been for your shot, it would have been a case of 'killed by a bear' for my gravestone. I'll do as much for you if ever I get the chance."

Coppee saw that he had conquered his rivel's enmity forever.

When, in the evening, they were once more seated round the camp-fire, Martin told the story of his rescue, and told it in terms which showed he felt deeply Coppee's conduct. However, none the less could he resist ending his story with:

"But I killed that bear, after all."—E. A. R.

St. Helena.

Napoleon effectively prevented St. Helena from ever sinking into obscurity. Nevertheless, for some years past the island has been getting deeper and deeper into financial straits, while the population has been steadily diminishing. St. Helena is only some 1,600 miles distant from Cape Town, and yet the island is comparatively unknown to South African colonists, as the outward and homeward steamers to and from Cape Town call there only once in three weeks, and make a very brief stoppage. Yet this historic island is well worthy of a visit, not only from its association with thre great Corsican, but also because it possesses, probably, the finest climate in the world. A constant southeasterly trade wind, straight from the pole, blows over the island and sweeps away those germs of disease which lie latent in less favored spots. As a consequence, the longevity of the inhabitants is probably much greater than in any other portion of the globe. In spite of all this, and the proximity of the island to the Cape, hardly a solitary Africander finds his way there from one year's end to another.

So much in reference to St. Helena as a health resort. Now let me briefly refer to a matter that is of more vital importance. The strategical advantages of the island have been fully recognized by both naval and military experts, and the royal commission which was presided over by Lord Carnarvon recommended that it should be strongly fortified and constituted an important naval and coaling station for the vessels of the squadron within the Cape command. These recommendations have, however, not been carried into effect. Certainly, something was done to improve the fortifications ten or twelve years ago, but the guns are now of an absolete type and the diminutive garrison maintained in the island is utterly inadequate to defend it. Moreover, though St. Helena is supposed to be a naval coaling station, the Admiralty maintains no coal supply there, the coal for the ships on the Cape and the west coast of Africa stations being kept at Ascension, which does not possess a solitary gun, but is a cinder heap, upon which many thousands of pounds are annually wasted.

The defenseless condition of St. Helena is a matter that intimately concerns the South African colonies, and should engage their attention. The island is utterly unable to help itself. The opening of the Suez Canal ruined its prosperity, and ever since it has been drifting nearer and nearer to bankruptcy. The greater portion of the adult male population has migrated to the Cape, and the whole revenue of the island is now only some £6,000. There are only a half dozen officials, and the Governor fills innumerable other offices, including that of Chief (and only) Justice. It is deplorable that Great Britain should allow one of her possessions to sink into such a condition of decrepitude, and especially an island which, lying in the direct route to the Cape, must ever be of considerable importance.—African Critic.

How "Uncle Sam" Got His Name.

The nickname "Uncle Sam," as applied to the United States Government, is said to have originated as follows: Samuel Wilson commonly called "Uncle Sam," was a government inspector, of beef and pork at Troy, N. Y., about 1812. A contractor Ebert Anderson, purchased a quantity of provisions and the barrels were marked "E. A." Anderson's initials, and "U. S.," for United States. The latter initials were not familiar to Wilson's workmen, who inquired what they meant. A facetious fellow answered: "I don't know, unless they mean "Uncle Sam." A vast amount of property afterwards passed through Wilson's hands marked in the same manner, and he was often joked upon the extent of his possession. The joke spread through all the departments of the Government, and before long the United States was popularly referred to as "Uncle Sam."

Baltimore, for the first time in three years, won the cup donated by Mr. Temple of New York by administering four straight defeats to the Clevelands.

going to school

Do the children go to school? And are they joyous and happy? Is school-life a pleasure? And is progress being made? Or is the opposite true? Does the close of each day bring a headache? There is no appetite and sleep is imperfect. The color gradually leaves the cheeks and only a little effort is followed by exhaustion. To continue school means to come to the end of the year with broken health. What is the best thing to do? Take of Cod-liver Oil, with hypophosphites. The cod-liver oil nourishes the body and makes red corpuscles for the blood. The hypophosphites are tonics to the nervous system, giving mental activity during the day and refreshing sleep at night. Don't let you child get thin and worry along. Give Scott's Emulsion; insist on a generous amount of out-door exercise; and the vigor of youth will return.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16th, 1896.

Senator Faulkner calls Senator Quay's absurd claim of 270 electoral votes for McKinley a burlesque, and says that Quay knows the battle is lost and being compelled to put out some kind of figures he made them so large that no body would believe them. A significant result of the publication of Quay's figures was their immediate effect upon the betting fraternity, the members of which may be counted upon to recognize a bluff when they see it. The most reckless of the gamblers were offering odds of 3 to 1 on McKinley until Quay's claim was made public. They at once reduced them to 2 to 1 and in some cases the most they will now offer is 7 to 5, and there are reasons for believing that the money to offer these odds comes from Mark Hanna's corruption fund.

Senator Gorman returned from New York this week. As usual he refused to be interviewed, but he reiterated his statement that Bryan would carry Maryland.

The returns from polls made in nearly all the Congressional districts are sufficiently complete to indicate how the next House will stand, and an estimate, which is regarded by the democratic Congressional committee as very conservative, shows that 190 silver Representatives will be elected, including democrats, populists and silver republicans. That will give the silver men control of the House by a comfortable working majority and ensures the early enactment of a law providing for the free coinage of silver, if the estimate be correct and Mr Bryan be elected, and democrats have no doubt of either, as Mr. Bryan has said that if elected he would call an immediate extra session of Congress for the express purpose of providing for the free coinage of silver, and the Senate is solid for silver and will remain so.

A Washington hotel proprietor has stirred up a regular hornet's nest by inviting all the other hotel proprietors to meet at his place "for the purpose of contributing to the McKinley and Hobart finance committee." Many hotel men have publicly condemned this scheme and announced that they would neither attend the meeting nor contribute, and the following resolution, unanimously adopted shows what democrats generally think of it: "Resolved, That the Columbia Democratic Club denounces the action of T. E. Roessle, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, Washington, D. C. (who in the past has been the beneficiary of democratic patronage through National committees and representative democrats of the various states), in his personal efforts to tax the hotel men of this city in behalf of the McKinley and Hobart finance committee, and we earnestly call upon the hotel proprietors of Washington, without regard to their political affiliations, who do not wish to confine their trade to one political party, to repudiate and repel this contemptible effort to array them in such a partisan movement. Resolved, That when hotel men arrogate to themselves the right to dictate to the people what their political course should be, we reserve—and shall exercise—the right to notify the traveling public of our political faith as to whom they should patronize when they visit Washington."

Secretary Morton, has in a published interview allowed it to be seen that the administration thinks that "The republican party is making a great mistake in bragging of strength and not doing more work," and is very much afraid that Bryan is going to be elected.

If the Washington Post, gold organ though it be, keeps on increasing the Bryan vote in its estimates it will be conceding his election before the votes are cast. In its latest table it gives Bryan 205 electoral votes and McKinley 165, leaving 77 in doubt. If Mr. Bryan only has to get 19 electoral votes out of these 77 his election can be put down as a reasonable certainty, as the States from which those 77 votes are to come are Illinois, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Minnesota, Michigan and Kentucky.

As a rule neither democrats nor republicans think Archbishop Ireland's letter will benefit McKinley. A Kansas man, now in Washington says: "It is quite possible and very probable that the letter of Archbishop Ireland will prove a boomerang, and cause more loss than gain to McKinley. The temper of a good many of the Western A. P. A. members is such that they are very apt to resent anything of advice from a Catholic source, and thus the letter of his reverence may be a sort of Burchard affair for which Gov. McKinley will owe him no thanks."

No matter how much money Hanna's committee gets it wants more and it has actually had the impudence to open an office in Washington, and send a circular letter to all government officials, asking them to call to see the agent in charge of that office, and suggesting that if they do not care to call the agent will call on them at their residences. Yet this is an administration elected by Democrats.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Cigarettes Made Him Steal.

In the United States Court at Williamsport, last week, when Louis Droffner, aged twenty, who pleaded guilty to having extracted money from letters while a clerk in the post office in that city, was called for sentence, it was shown that the young man was so excessively addicted to the cigarette habit that his intellect had been shaken. His mother fell to the floor unconscious when Judge Buffington pronounced a sentence of imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary upon the youth.

A Farmer Hangs Himself.

His Mind Had Become Unbalanced Over the Damage Done to His Home by a Storm.

William Klinger, a well-to-do Shamokin farmer, committed suicide by hanging himself to a rafter in his barn Friday night. During the recent storm in this section Klinger's house was badly damaged, and this so worried him that his mind is supposed to have become unbalanced.

ONE ON AUNTIE.

An Amusing Little Story About a Story.

There is a certain young woman living in Greater New York, says the Evening Sun, who has a penchant for telling stories. Not "fibs" nor "tales out of school," but cheerful little narratives of a kind to lighten the leaden atmosphere of a "woman's luncheon" itself. The young woman has thus won quite a reputation (for a woman) as a raconteur, and she has a very pretty and very choice collection of stories at her tongue's end. It so happens that this young woman also has a maiden aunt, an individual who, although estimable in every way, does not possess a collection of stories of any sort, and who, lacking appreciation in this line, does not wholly approve of her niece's success. The other evening the aunt, with others, dined at the house of the niece. The niece was in a particularly lively mood, and with so good an audience she proceeded to "get off" some of her pet anecdotes. The effect upon the audience was all that could be desired, and exhilarated by such a reception the young woman began the preliminaries to what she regarded as the flower of her fiction. Scarcely had she got beyond the opening sentence, however, when the maiden aunt uttered a deprecating "Oh!" followed by "Clara, my dear, you're surely not going to tell that story." "Why not?" replied "Clara, my dear." "It's one of the best stories I ever heard." "Not if it's the story I mean," said the maiden aunt. "If you're going to tell the story that I think you are, it's—ahem—well, not exactly nice, you know, and—" "Do you mean you think it's improper?" asked "Clara, my dear," "because I differ with you. It's a good story, and what's more, it's perfectly tellable. It's—" "Not if it's the story I think it is, my dear," said the maiden aunt in her most more-in-anger-than-in-sorrow sort of tone. "It's a highly improper tale, and—" "Oh, well," interrupted the young woman, by this time thoroughly aroused, "if you're going to condemn it like that, of course I don't care to tell it. I certainly shan't do so now, after what you've said." It was more than characteristic of this maiden aunt that the moment she had accomplished what she set out to do she began to repent. "Come, now, Clara, dear," she said, "you mustn't feel hurt at what I said. Very likely it isn't the same story after all. Go on and tell it, dear, and let me hear if it is the one I'm thinking of." But this, of course, the young woman refused to do, although the maiden aunt offered many other persuasions of the same sort. Things were quite murky for a bit, when suddenly the small boy of the family cleared the atmosphere by suggesting: "I tell you what. Let auntie tell her bad one an' see if it's the same as Clara's."

Why She Looks Sad.

Jones—Do you see that woman going into the dry goods store across the way?

Brown—Yes.

Jones—Fine looking, isn't she?

Brown—Yes, I should call her a very pretty woman.

Jones—But when one sees her closely she appears to have a sad expression. I've often wondered why it was. She's probably one of those unfortunates who have to work to support shiftless husbands. I'd like mighty well to know who she is.

Brown—She's my wife, and I think her sad look is caused by the fact that she can't come down town even to do a little shopping without being stared out of countenance by certain dudes who imagine that they are lady-killers.—Cleveland News and Herald.

A Satisfactory Explanation.

Some people are never at a loss for an answer, and the colored valet who got off the following is a good exponent of that class. It seems he was a lazy rascal, and his master one day remonstrated with him about his neglect of duty.

"But, massa, I's not equal to de occasion as I once was."

"Why, George, what on earth is the matter with you now?"

"I's got a stitch in my side, sir, dat trubbles me a powerful lot, and I's not able to do as much as I hab been doin'."

"A stitch in your side? Oh, come, George, that won't do. Where did you get such a thing as a stitch in your side?"

"De oder day, sah. You see, I wuz hemmed in by a crowd."—Harper's Round Table.

He Objected.

A worthy man who was very sensitive and retiring, having lost his wife, privately requested that he might be remembered in the ministers morning prayer from the pulpit, but asked that his name might not be mentioned.

On Sunday morning the good minister prayed most eloquently for "our good brother upon whom the heavy hand of sore affliction had so lately fallen.

At this point an elderly man whom the minister had married to a very young wife during the week, arose with a bounce, and stamped down the aisle, muttering loud enough to be heard all over the chapel:

"It may be an affliction, but I'm blest if I want to be prayed for in that fashion!"

Where Arithmetic Doesn't Come In.

"I hear you're very good at arithmetic, Bobby," said the visitor pleasantly.

"Sure," returned Bobby, without looking up from his play.

"Well, if I should tell you when your papa and your mamma were born could you tell me how old they are?" asked the visitor.

"I could tell you how old papa is," answered the boy.

"And not how old your mother is?" The boy shook his head.

"Arithmetic hasn't anything to do with a woman's age," he said.—Chicago Post.

A Stickler.

"Does the minister adhere to the lake-of-fire doctrine?"

"To some extent. He never preaches about it except in the winter. It is such bad form to talk about heat in the summer, you know."—Indianapolis Journal.

New Coal Vein Struck.

It is Eight Feet Thick, With but Nine Inches of Refuse.

An important discovery was made at the Draper colliery at Shenandoah, operated by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company. The Orchard vein was struck and found to be eight feet thick and only has nine inches of refuse. The vein pitches four hundred feet.

The Orchard vein has never been known to be in this valley before to-day. This discovery will be the means of greatly increasing the shipments and extra employment of labor.

A WOMAN'S STORY.

It Should Be of Interest to Every Thinking Woman.

Women who reason well know that no male physician can understandingly treat the complaint known as "female diseases," for no man ever experienced them.

This, Lydia E. Pinkham taught them twenty years ago, when she discovered in her Vegetable Compound the only successful cure for all those ailments peculiar to the sex. Many women have a fatal faith in their physician, and not till they can suffer no longer, will they think and act for themselves.

The following testimony is straight to the point, and represents the experience of hundreds of thousands of now grateful women: "For six years I was a great sufferer from those internal weaknesses so prevalent among our sex. After having received treatment from four physicians of our city, and finding no relief whatever, I concluded to try Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has proved a boon to me. It can truly be called a "Saviour of Women."—MRS. B. A. PERHAM, Waynesboro, Pa.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1896.

Vote the straight Democratic ticket. The Democratic column will be the second on the ballot, and by marking a cross in the circle at the top you vote for every name in the whole column. The ballot is so large that if you attempt to do any cutting you may so deface your ballot that it cannot be counted, and you will lose your vote.

There never was a time in the history of this nation when there was a stronger call for every voter to do his duty than at the coming election. There must be no apathy, no staying at home. The man who fails to exercise the highest right of an American freeman on November 3rd, ought to be ashamed of himself. He who fails to vote this fall, ought to emigrate to some country where the people have no right to vote. Democrats, whether you are for free silver or for a gold standard, there is no reason why you cannot, one and all, vote the straight local ticket. You can vote for Bryan and Sewall and the whole ticket by marking a cross in the circle at the top of the second column on the ballot. You can vote for Palmer and Buckner by marking a cross in the circle in the column headed "Jeffersonian," and then mark a cross after each name in the Democratic column from Congress down.

The local ticket was not made up on either a gold or silver basis, and the money question has nothing to do with local matters. Every man on the county ticket is a Democrat, nominated regularly by a Democratic convention, and therefore entitled to the support of every Democrat in the county. With a natural majority of 2500 in the county, surely the Democrats are not going to play into the hands of the Republicans by not voting. Again we say that the Democrat who does not give enough time to his country to go to the polls on November 3rd, is not worthy of the name.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MR. KULP.

CATAWISSA, PA., Oct. 19, 1896.

Hon. Monroe H. Kulp,
Shamokin, Pa.

MY DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date with "button" enclosed duly received, "soliciting my support and influence and thanking me for kindnesses already shown and hoping to see me personally before the close of the campaign." In reply, permit me to say, I should be very glad to meet you, "personally" and discuss any questions of a public character, on your past as a Republican, and on my past as a Democrat, and not as "hob-nobbing" in each others personal political interests. I am always so far as in my power ready to show "kindness" to any person, in a social way, and you are not indebted to me for any political "kindness" ever shown you. I labored two years ago to the best of my ability—publicly and privately for the election of Mr. Buckalew, and believe had it not been for this "assistance," "kindness" "tickle-me-and-I'll-tickle-you," "reciprocity" game played by Democrats in hopes of future rewards politically he would have been elected. Permit me to say, I am "still a Democrat," and as such can not become an "Arnold" and join the enemy or give "aid and comfort" to them. While Mr. Walsh, was not my personal choice for Congress of the 17th District, yet as a Democrat it is my duty to give him my hearty support, and shall, unless there is base treachery shown in his nomination, before Nov. 3, next. Mr. Kulp, how could you ask my "assistance"? Politically, there is not the least affinity that would prompt "assistance." You are a Republican, and believe in all its ordinances. I am a Democrat, and believe in its doctrines as taught and practiced by the fathers and founders of the party, "Free Trade and Sailors Rights" included, and opposed to all class legislation as a farmer—not in name only. I ask for no special legislation for my particular industry. Put no more taxes upon my vocation in proportion to the money invested in it than on other industries; give me the "world's market" in which to buy and sell, and let gain, and it will matter but little to me and my brother farmers, who is in Congress or out of it.

With the kindest of personal feelings and trust in the success of Democratic principles, I am

Very truly yours,
E. M. TEWKSBURY.

BISHOP M'GOVERN TALKS FOR FREE SILVER.

Believes the Coinage of More Money Will Be a Boon to the Nation--He Suggests Remedies for the Financial Ills--

Predicts Democratic Success.

[The following interview with Bishop McGovern appeared in The Patriot of July 22, last. The edition containing it was quickly exhausted. So many inquiries for the article have reached The Patriot that we reproduce it herewith.—Editor Patriot.]

"I believe the Democrats will carry every state in November west of Pennsylvania except California, and every Southern state, even Kentucky. A month ago, my opinion is, they could not have carried a single state. But a great tidal wave is sweeping over the country for free silver to which we may attribute this change in the condition of affairs."

These are the words of Rt. Rev. Thomas McGovern, the beloved bishop of Harrisburg. The bishop is a practical rather than theoretical man and his opinion on ecclesiastical and public matters carries with it great weight. He is convalescent from a severe attack of malaria and was feeling very comfortable yesterday afternoon when a Patriot reporter called at his residence at Sylvan Heights.

"Oh, I am feeling much better than I did a few days ago," was the bishop's reply in answer to a question as to his health. "But it was one of the worst attacks of malaria I have ever had. And this is not good weather to get rid of the malady."

The conversation then turned to the political situation in which the venerable bishop showed a keen interest. He discussed the currency question in all its phases in a manner that was as convincing as entertaining. He showed a remarkable knowledge of the situation and suggested numerous remedies to improve the financial policy of the government. The bishop did not indicate a preference for any of the presidential nominees, but from the tenor of his remarks it must be assumed that he favors the election of Bryan and Sewall.

"I am in favor of honest money," said he thoughtfully. "Now, what I want to know is, what is honest money? We now have gold, paper, bonds and promises to pay, and all pass as honest money. There is not enough of gold in the world to pay its indebtedness. The United States government could not pay its indebtedness in gold because it has not got it. She gives us treasury notes or bonds and these are to be paid in honest money, one paper usually exchanged for another."

"What about silver?" asked the reporter.

"Silver is surely as good as paper, and fifty per cent. better. If the government pays her indebtedness in silver she is paying it in a better currency than in paper. All nations would be bankrupt to-day if they were asked to pay their indebtedness in gold. Can we not take silver the same as we are taking paper money? Silver will at least increase the volume of circulation, which is now, in our country, too limited to carry on business and makes rates too high.

"Money after all is only a commodity in the market," added Bishop McGovern earnestly. "When it is scarce it rates high; when it is abundant it rates low. If we increase the circulation by the free coinage of silver we are employing a better substitute than paper, because silver has an intrinsic value; paper has not. The opponents of the free coinage of silver assert that it will bankrupt us, but there is no more danger of our government becoming bankrupt by the free coinage of silver than there is by an extra issue of paper money and bonds.

"There is no danger of a general stampede being made on the United States treasury by the people or the creditors. This thing of preserving the credit of our nation is good sentiment, but our government discounted its own paper over its own counter during the civil war. The soldier was paid in paper money on the battlefield and the custom house duties were demanded in gold. We sold $1,000 bonds for $250 in gold and paid six per cent. interest in gold on the face value on them. To whose advantage is the gold standard? The Shylocks of Europe and the gold bugs of Wall street. And at whose loss? The toiling masses."

"Do you believe the prices of commodities would rise if we were to have free coinage of silver at a ratio of sixteen to one, as declared for by the Chicago platform?"

"Some commodities would probably increase in price," was the bishop's answer. "But wages would also rise. Free coinage would also help our manufacturers, because they would be better able to borrow money at fair rates. Every man would be employed and he would get his wages. When there are two employers after one man wages are bound to go up. And when there are two men after one boss for a job you may be sure wages are going down.

"What right has Europe to dictate to us what kind of currency we ought to have? If they are not willing to take our currency let them not buy our exports. But they are not going to lose our trade. They will accommodate themselves to the circumstances. That will act as a tariff and be on a sliding scale and go up and down, just as Europeans want our trade."

Bishop McGovern said he believed the free coinage of silver would be a boon to the farmers in the West who pay 10 to 15 per cent. interest on their mortgages. Many of these people have bought land for $5,000 on which they have paid $3,000. They are paying 10 to 15 per cent. on the mortgage of $2,000, which is now only the actual value of the property. The result is that in a short time the farmers will lose their property and be driven from their homes, like the tenant farmers of Ireland, and all the money they have paid on it.

The bishop says some national banks hoard up money whenever there is a financial depression, such as existed during the past three years, to loan through outside parties at exorbitant rates of interest. If we had more money Bishop McGovern thinks this would not be done. The farmer could pay his interest and prosper, the mechanic and laborer would be benefited and the banker would lose nothing.

"You hardly ever heard of a Catholic bishop opposing the poor," said the bishop. "Yes, I have read Mr. Bryan's speech, and in my judgment it is full of logic for an orator," he added. "I would rather have seen Bland, Boies or some other old line silver advocate nominated at Chicago, but I am satisfied with the nominations. I believe the Democrats will carry every state in November west of Pennsylvania, except California, and every Southern state, even Kentucky."

Bishop McGovern closed the interview by stating that all we need is confidence; and any man who has confidence that our railroads, steamship companies, banks, insurance companies, building associations, our government and the governments of Europe will pay their obligations in gold has confidence enough to eat shady hash and suspicious sausages without a single gorge rising at them.

Alphonsus Walsh will be the next Congressman for this district.

Work For 8000 Miners.

Susquehanna Coal Company's Collieries to Start Monday.

At Nanticoke on Saturday notices were posted at the various collieries operated by the Susquehanna Coal Company, that work would be resumed on full time on Monday next. It is said that the company will continue this order during the remainder of this year, which is good news to at least 8000 miners, laborers and slate pickers.

There has been an increase in the number of registered voters this fall. There are more Democrats in Columbia County to-day than there ever were before. What will the majority be November 3rd? For some years past the majorities have been growing smaller and smaller. This fall let us bring it up to high water mark. Make it 2500. Don't let a voter stay at home.

Two years ago there was a political tidal wave that swept the whole country, and in the defeat of the Democratic party everywhere, a congressman was lost in this congressional district, M. H. Kulp of Northumberland county defeating C. R. Buckalew of this county, by about 900 majority in the district. A full Democratic vote in Columbia county would have elected Mr. Buckalew, so that it was the stay-at-home Democrats that lost the district to us in 1894. What are you going to do about it now? Are you going to stay at home on November 3rd, and turn the district over to Kulp again? No, never. Get out a full vote and redeem the county by giving an old-time majority.

The Bryan and Sewall club was addressed on Monday night by Walter E. Ritter Esq., of Williamsport. There was a large attendance, and the speech was received with frequent applause.

Is there any reason why a single Democrat in this county ought not to vote for Alphonsus Walsh for Congress? Not one.

He is a Democrat; he is a lawyer of ability; he is a gentleman of culture and education; and Sullivan county is entitled to all that Columbia can do for her, in the way of a good big majority. Why can't that majority be 2500 this year?

M. H. Kulp was a member of the last congress, a body in which the Republican majority did nothing except to endeavor to prevent a Democratic administration from maintaining the credit of the nation; and to make extravagant appropriations of money. Mr. Kulp voted with the Republicans every time on every question. Is that any reason why Columbia county Democrats should vote for him for a second term?

Alphonsus Walsh, Democratic candidate for congress in this district, spent several days in Bloomsburg last week. As there are four counties in the district, of course it is impossible for him to go every where and see everybody. It would be very unfair for any Democrat to refuse to vote for him because Mr. Walsh has not personally solicited his support. No man can do impossible things. Mr. Walsh solicits the votes of all Democrats, and of all Republicans not in sympathy with their party this fall.

M. H. Kulp, Republican candidate for congress in this district, has sent letters to a large number of Democrats in this county, asking their support, and enclosing a button with his picture on it. What sort of an opinion can Mr. Kulp have of Democrats, if he believes that their votes can be won by a little taffy? And what claim has he on Democratic votes? He is in favor of a high protective tariff, and will vote for it in congress every time. Do Democrats want the McKinley bill again? If so, they will vote for Kulp. If not, they will resent his action by voting for Walsh.

Is there any reason why M. H. Kulp deserves Democratic votes to help send him back to Congress? Not one. His first election was purely an accident, and he never would have been nominated by the Republicans, if they had had any idea of his election. But he was carried in on the tidal wave that swept the country, and was conceded a re-nomination according to custom. His second election would be a blunder. He has done nothing to show any ability or fitness for the position, and has voted every time with the Republicans.

Besides, this is a Democratic district, and ought to be represented by a representative Democrat, and not by a very ordinary Republican, possessing not a single qualification of a statesman. The Democrats must go to the polls on November 3rd and vote for Alphonsus Walsh and the whole Democratic ticket. It was those who didn't vote at all in 1894 who elected Kulp, by cutting Mr. Buckalew's majority in this county down to a very low figure.

A CARD.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of county commissioner, for the south side of the river, and respectfully solicite the votes of Democrats and Brothers who think that the south side ought to be represented.

Practical Knowledge is Power.

It is power because it moves the world. It is well to have the culture and refinement that are the product of what is called a finished education, but polish and ornament on the engine are not what makes the wheels go. It is the energy of the steam, directed by the master hand of the engineer that sets the practical machinery in motion; and it is practical education that keeps the wheels of commerce in motion by which the products of human labor are distributed.

A thorough business education is a qualification for the active affairs of life. It meets the needs of all classes. It is not at all necessary if you wish to remain a cipher in character and influence, but highly necessary if you wish your career to show practical solution of the problem of Success in Life. Williams College of Business makes a specialty of training young people to make a success in life, and hundreds testify to the excellent work it has done.

There are seven schools conducted under the same management. The Bloomsburg branch will be organized Oct. 29 in the COLUMBIAN building. Day and night sessions.

If you want one of the first fifty scholarships that are sold for only $50 attend to it at once. Regular rates for these scholarships in business schools are from $100 to $200.

"Life In London."

Did you hear Dr. Cadman's great lecture on "Abraham Lincoln," which he delivered in the Methodist Tabernacle last spring? If so, you will want to hear his other great lecture on "Life in London" to be delivered in the same place next Monday evening Oct. 26. Dr. Cadman considers his "London" lecture quite as popular as the one on "Lincoln." For the benefit of those who have not heard this remarkable man it is proper to state that he is only thirty years old and is now pastor of the Central Metropolitan Temple, New York City where General Grant formerly worshiped and where great congregations gather weekly. He was born in England and knows London, the largest city of the world, and will for an hour or more entertain, instruct and delight his audience with what he has to say. Admission 35 cts. Methodist Tabernacle Monday evening Oct. 26th. 8:00 o'clock. No reserved seats.

No, Mr. Kulp, we must decline. You have our thanks for the button, which contains a very good looking picture of yourself, but the invitation to support you at the polls we are unable to accept. We have another engagement for that day.

DEMOCRATS, TAKE PRIDE!

The attention of the Democratic voters in each County and representative district is called to the representation that they may be entitled to at the next state Convention.

The representation in the Democratic State Conventions shall consist of representative delegates, one for each one thousand votes cast at the preceding Presidential election, or fraction of one thousand such votes, amounting to five hundred or more in the representative districts of the State, provided that each representative district shall have at least one delegate.

Itis hoped that the Democratic votrs will keep this fact in view and endeavor to have the largest vote possible polled, so that their County and district may have full representation at the next State Convention.

The necessity of paying strict attention to this important duty will be readily observed by all good Democrats. Each County should take pride in seeing to it that the present representation is sustained or increased.

Caught In McKinley's House.

Four Men Found Concealed About the Premises.

Four men were arrested at the McKinley residence during Saturday night. One was concealed in the garret, a second in the cellar and two in an adjacent outhouse.

The men would give no explanation of their intentions but it is thought that the many valuable gifts sent McKinley recently induced them to attempt to rob the house. The matter has been kept quiet, but it is learned that the men were released at the request of members of the McKinley household.

THE WORLD OF FASHION.

REIGN OF THE OUTING GOWN IN AUTUMN.

Early Fall Fabrics—Rich Material for Dressy Toilettes—The Artistic Tea Gown—Big Sleeves Doomed.

The "summer season," in our climate, really extends through September and often practically includes October as, with a change of underwear, the gowns suitable to August are also suitable to the warm spells that are liable to occur even until November. A perfect outing gown should be made with an eye to the fact that it may be needed until the November frosts are ready to descend.

Smart gowns for afternoon wear will be required for some time to come. China crepe promises to be popular as a material for dressy wear during the coming months. In all cases this material needs a silk lining. The popularity of yachting and acquatic sports renders blue serge an always desirable material for a general outing gown. The tailors either use cravenetted serge or shrink the material before using it, and it will then stand the influence of sea air or endure the roughest usage.

Among other popular early fall fabrics are watered poplin, etarnine, and poil de cherre. Stripes are popular with all materials. Velvet and velveteens, black brocades, changeable silks and cloths will be much worn for fall and winter. The popularity of bicycling has made diagonals and Scotch mixtures very popular for general outdoor wear. Cloths made of a combination of cotton and very high grade worsted are being introduced in stripes and checks. Serges will be much worn in tailor suits. Nearly all fall fabrics in wool are shown in two-color effects.

From Paris comes word that the hot weather has made most women rush into batiste, lawn or muslin, all much trimmed with Valenciennes lace, insertions of it forming tabliers, quilles or else V-shaped in front, and ending in the waistbard. Of this last several kinds are worn, the plain band with long sash ends at the back; then the corselet form, which encircles the waist as high as the edge of the bolero and, in this case, to avoid a quantity of material round the waist and spoiling its symmetry, the bodice is cut away underneath. Then there is the belt that descends a little back and front, and fastens at the side or back. For the watering and bathing resorts, foulards, linen, batiste and pique in light shades are made, also coarse unbleached and blue linen. These last are only trimmed with stitching above the hem. The light materials are not lined, but made over an underskirt of silk.

For dressy toilettes, rich materials are used, covered with lace and in some cases with costly open embroidery. The elegant combination of black and white appears among some of the most elaborate and elegant toilettes worn at fashionable watering places, as well as among gowns for general wear. A dinner gown worn by a belle of the season at a popular resort was of black satin, cut decolette, and heavily trimmed about the neck and shoulders with rich lace. Another handsome dress worn lately was made with a full-gored skirt of white satin duchess, with a bodice of black and white striped satin, lavishly trimmed with white Venetian lace laid over black silk Chantilly. The waist was cut square front and back, with the black and white lace garnitures framing the opening and falling over the full elbow sleeves formed of white Venetian net over black tulle. The effect of the whole was cool, beautiful and most becoming. White and cream-colored taffeta silks dotted or striped with black are trimmed with wide black velvet ribbon overlaid with white guipure or Honiton lace insertion. A stylish gown worn at an evening reception recently was made of white satin brocade with deep empire girdle and wide flat epaulets that spread out above the rather small Stuart sleeve puffs of the brocade. The epaulets were richly decorated with Russian point lace en applique, giving the effect of rich white embroidery wrought upon the velvet. The Medici collar was similarly decorated.

The stiff white and colored shirt waist fronts are not worn so generally, and fewer stiff white collars are seen with lawn shirt waists, the softer and more feminine band of ribbon with a bow at the back, taking its place.

Elbow sleeves are much affected with a band of ribbon molding the sleeve in place, to match the neck ribbon.

Cool linen and duck suits, with jacket to match, are also very popular for morning wear, and are even seen at the fashionable resorts, where many of the visitors seem to go in for comfort, rather than style.

The simple but pretty skirt known as the umbrella shape is still much used, while ladies who are inclined to be stout have the fullness arranged in small tucks on the sides of the front width, and on each hip.

The soft, artistic tea gown is even more becoming than the elaborate and costly one, and is more especially suitable for the young wearer if carried out in light colors, and with plenty of lace and ribbon. Foulards, China silks, surah, mery and all thin limp silks or nun's veilings, cashmere and similar soft textures make up most effectively in this style, and for evening wear the little habit-front can be removed, elaving a V opening, showing a band of velvet and a paste buckle.

In the matter of fabrics for late fall and winter, velvet will reign supreme. No winter wardrobe will be complete without a velvet gown. The French modiste has declared in its favor; it is most becoming to the complexion, nothing so sets off the figure or may be made to hang so well. To obtain a gray or a purple velvet gown will be the ambition of every well-dressed New York woman.

It is predicted that the large sleeve will quite disappear before winter sets in. The variety to be seen continues almost endless, but in few cases is the puffed effect now carried below the elbow. Many of the sleeves now seen, when not too large, are strikingly handsome, and the prevailing style, somewhat reduced in size, is more than likely to outlast the effort for a return of the small sleeve. The modern woman is loath to give up an effect that adds to her dignity and beauty, and this the puffed sleeve does when not carried to extremes. But it should be said that whoever invented the wire abominations now worn for giving form to sleeves of thin material ought to be made to wear them for punishment until doomsday.

TO DRESS A BED PROPERLY.

The Cover Must be Tucked in Well and a French Bolster Used.

Folding beds retain their favor in boarding houses, where one room has to do duty for sleeping, sewing, reception and general dressing room; divans, draped cots and upholstered dry goods boxes still serve the inhabitants of flats, but "real folks," as one little girl defines them—people who have real homes without shams or pretenses, like an honest bedroom and an open bed, that does not masquerade as a bookcase or a wardrobe or a piano. Brass bedsteads are still preferred by those who can afford them; next come mahogany and other hard woods; then softer woods stained the new moss green or enameled white with designs of windmills and canals in blue, to imitate Delft ware. Bedspreads come in all the delicate colors, but the unrelieved white are the most desirable, because the best to launder. Cottage quilts are gay weavings at a low price, which resemble the home-made efforts of our grandmothers. These spreads are especially sold for summer house use and the rooms of young girls.

Mitcheline is the name of a "Marseilles" effect in delicate colors, pink, blue, light and Delft, with flower and fern patterns; $2. There are better qualities in these effects, and the colorings include deep yellow and lilac, as well as pinks and blues.

English dimity spreads are inexpensive, some so low as $2. Then there are white spreads with the deep border and "brocaded" flowerings of large size, also with the "satin" finish. You can pay as high as $25 for some of these, and when you get to elegant lace spreads laid over these there is no limit to the cost. Plain or elaborate, there is just one way now in favor for dressing a bed, and that is with the cover neatly tucked in all around and surmounted by a round French bolster whose cover must match the spreads. Heavy white linen with borders and centre piece embroidered in yellow wash silk looks well.

The careful housewife is as insistent upon the crease down her spread centre as are some men about the fold in their trousers.—Philadelphia Press.

About Shoes.

Don't wear tight shoes if you want your feet to look and feel well; don't wear a short shoe. It does not make a foot look agreeably small; it gives great pain and in time produces bunions. An ill-fitting shoe, whether too small or too large, it does not matter, produces corns and all their attendant discomforts. Temporary relief for a painful corn may be found by applying a mixture of carbolic acid and sweet oil, or binding on the corn at night a small piece of lemon. By rubbing the feet with glycerine after bathing blisters may be prevented if they are tender and a general soothing effect produced. A well-shaped foot looks well in any style of shoe; a defective foot, whether deformed by nature or careless treatment, should always be covered by a black shoe which hides many shortcomings and outgrowings and is always in good taste.

A Home-Made Pomatum.

Pomatum may be prepared as follows: One pound of beef marrow, six ounces of lard; place these in the cool oven till dissolved, then strain through a piece of course muslin into a large bowl. Have a large saucepan half full of boiling water on the fire, and stand the bowl in it, add a pint of olive oil and stir it for an hour with a piece of stick. When cool scent with essence of lavender or bergamot, and place in pots for use.

How to Keep Ice Water.

A pitcher of ice water laid in a newspaper, with the ends of the paper twisted together to exclude the air will remain all night in any summer room with scarcely any perceptible melting of the ice.

HIS WIFE'S MEAN TRICK.

The Peculiar Experience of an Absent-Minded Man.

"It's strange, strange, strange, that I can't find a thing or keep a thing in this house," said Mr. Juniper the other day. "It's all because of your loose, slack, unsystematic way of keeping house, Mrs. Juniper! Let me lay a thing down once, and it is gone forever and forever!"

"What is it now, dear?"

"Don't dear me, but help me to find my hat! I hung it on the hall rack when I came in, but I might as well have hung it to the four winds of heaven, so far as my ever seeing it again is concerned. I never expect to see it again."

"Now, dear——"

"Don't dear me. If I were really dear to you you'd try to make me comfortable by improving your housekeeping, so that I'd know where to find my things. Help me find that hat!"

"Why Henry——"

"Don't stand there staring at me in that perfectly inane way, but help me to find that hat! I ought to have been down town an hour ago! I suppose it'll end by my wearing my silk hat, and it's raining like fury, and I'll be making a guy of myself simply because when I lay a thing down in this house, no power on earth can keep it there."

"Henry——"

"I'll do some positive harm if I don't find that hat. Why don't you look for it? Make the children hunt for it! But it's of no use! I never expect to see it again on this earth—never! It's the way with everything in this house! It makes me so raving, raving mad that I——"

"Henry Juniper, will you keep still long enough for——"

"No, I'll not keep still! I've kept still long enough about the way things go in this house, and now I'll speak out! When a man lays down his hat and can't find it——"

"Henry, that hat is on your head!"

"What! On my head? Well, I'll be ——, now, this is some trick! I'd take my oath before any court in the land, I'd swear on my deathbed that that hat was not on my head when I began looking for it!"

"Nonsense!"

"It's not nonsense! It's as true as that I live and stand before you a tormented, bedeviled man, who is ridiculed and made the victim of some low, mean trick in his own house! You'll hear more about this when I get home!"—Detroit Free Press.

She Was a Queen.

Marie Magnier of the Gymnase has the two largest diamonds now in Paris. One day she received from her jeweler a telegram asking her to come at once to his shop. There she found a tall woman, thickly veiled, who held in her hands a case with two superb diamonds in it. "Mademoiselle," she said, "M. F tells me that your fancy is to possess a pair of exceptionally beautiful earrings. Those are all that you can desire. Could you pay down for them before five to-night the 100,000 francs which I ask for them?" Mme. Magnier was startled.

"Hum, my good woman," she said, in a brusque manner, "you are very cool over the matter. You ask for 100,000 francs just as you would ask for a bushel of onions."

The jeweler put his fingers on his lips and nodded deprecatingly.

"Oh, very well," said Magnier, "if she is a Queen."

"She is a Queen," answerd the lady, proudly, shutting the case with a snap. But Magnier had been touched by the blaze of light which had just disappeared from before her eyes, so she said, meekly:

"All right. I will drive to my banker, and in an hour I shall be back with the money, madame."

And within the hour she possessed the most marvelous jewels which ever adorned a first night in Paris. But she never discovered the identity of the veiled woman.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Get Your Money Back.

Half-Way to New York from Chicago and a Half Dollar Ahead.

A commercial traveler, Saturday told this interesting story at Washington: "I was in Chicago last week," said he, "and happened to remark to a fellow tourist that I would start to New York next day. He at once enlightened me how to make the trip profitable. 'Stop on the way and see Major McKinley,' said he; 'it will pay you.' I investigated and bought a round trip ticket to Canton for $1.50. Arriving at the Ohio Mecca, after paying my respects to the major, I had no difficulty selling the return ticket for $2. I was half a dollar ahead and half way to New York on the deal. All the commercial travelers bound from the west for New York come by the way of Canton. It pays."

Supposed Murdered Man Alive.

An Innocent Man has been in Jail Charged With the Crime.

The innocence of Stanislaus Blascok, at Williamsport, who was charged with murder, has been established by the finding of Franz Menka, his alleged victim. Blascok and Menka went berrying together near Ralston about three weeks ago, when Menka suddenly disappeared.

The two men had quarreled the night before and when Menka failed to come back Blascok was brought to jail in Williamsport. Posses of men spent a week searching mountains and abandoned coal mines, expecting to find Menka's body. Saturday a letter was received from Menka, who is now at McKeesport, Pa.

A Severe Test of Popular Judgment.

The profound public interest in the November election is indicated by the alacrity with which voters are registering their names in those States where registry is necessary in order to insure the right to vote. Never since the adoption of the Federal Constitution has there been an election which has put to such a severe test the democratic theory that men are capable of self-government.

The main question to be decided—that of the desirability of Free Coinage of silver—involves in its solution many intricate economic problems that cannot be settled off hand one way or the other. It affords in the discussion a great opportunity for demagogy and confusion of ideas.

But we are not without confidence that the people will have so mastered it before they shall vote that their verdict will be right. In that case it will prove a most notable vindication of the infallibility of the popular judgment.—Record.

A Bicycle Orchestra Suggested.

Would it not be well, suggests a wheelman, to organize a bicycle orchestra; not a brass band affair, but music produced by the bells. The tinkling of the bells of a party of cyclers is a merry sound, but why not have them ring chimes and play simple tunes? Eight or more persons in a club might have the bells on their machines arranged so as to form a scale, each bell being tuned to the correct note. It should not be difficult to do this. Then with a little practice a pleasing effect might be produced by the players.—Washington Star.

Bullet Seen With Naked Eye.

Searching for a bullet in a man's leg with the naked eye was an interesting experiment tried at the laboratory of the Aetna Electric Works at Hartford, Conn. A crowd of scientists watched the work, which was conducted by Secretary Henry Green and John Bowers of the Aetna plant.

Roentgen rays were used, and a perfected Crookes tube, which is the successful result of X ray experimenting at the Aetna works, added greatly to the success of the undertaking. The experiment was the first of the kind ever undertaken.

Theodore Studley, of Colt's Fire Arms Company, was the subject of experiment. For two years a bullet has been imbedded in his leg somewhere between the hip and the calf of the leg. Physicians have again and again probed for the ball, without success, and Mr. Studley had abandoned all hope of ever having it located. The bullet was located and the work verified by a photograph.

Among the experiments performed by the company was the placing of a coin behind a six inch board without letting the observer know what it was. The instant the instrument was raised to the eyes the discovery of the coin was announced, and in some cases even its denomination was given.—New York Herald.

"For five weeks I lived on cold water, so to speak," writes a man who suffered terribly from indigestion.

He could hardly keep anything on his stomach. What stayed, wasn't properly digested and gave him terrible pangs.

This is not an uncommon case. Dyspeptics don't get enough nourishment. They are generally thin and weak.

They may eat enough, but they don't digest enough. Much of what they eat turns into poison. If this keeps on there's no telling what disease they may get next.

NOT A FAIR GAME.

"If you little fellows are not careful you will be caught some day."

This is what an old bird said as he sat on the fence, one morning in June. The "little fellows" listened a moment and then they rushed off to their play in the fields. The sky was clear and blue, and they could see any dangerous creature that might appear, while it was yet a long way off. They would have plenty of time to scurry away, to get home before it could catch them, or, at least, to hide deep in the bushes till it had gone.

"It's a queer world!" said one very small chap. "What with telegraph wires hung up in the most unexpected places, and the railroad with all the noise and smoke, and those terrible hawks, it does seem as if we could not have a minute's peace. It's 'look out there,' or 'run away from this,' or 'fly away from that,' all the time."

"Oh! I'm not afraid," said one younger. "I did run into a telegraph wire the first day it was put up, but now I dodge them all."

"I never can abide the trains," said a small Miss, in speckled gray. "I know they do no harm, but they frighten me just the same, and I always fly away."

"I can stand nearly everything but the hawks," said one of the older ones in the party.

They all agreed nobody could abide hawks. If it were not for the fact that they could run and hide when the hawks appeared, life would not be worth living.

High in the air, wheeling slowly round and round in great circles, was a hawk looking sharply down on the country, spread out like a map beneath him. He could see the fields, the woods, the brooks and ponds, the roads, and the railway. There were chickens down in the farm yards. He must move slowly and cautiously so as not to attract attention and alarm the cock and hens. If he was careful, perhaps he could have spring chicken for breakfast. Suddenly he dropped, like a stone, out of the sky right into a farm yard. Ah! They saw him and ran, and—oh!—there was a man with a gun! The hawk turned and darted into the air, while a shower of shot whistled after him.

How vexatious! No chicken this time. The sun was now more than an hour high and he had eaten nothing since the afternoon before, when he had caught a sparrow in a wheat field. He circled round and round, keeping a sharp lookout for a breakfast. Ah! here was just the thing—a whole flock of little birds holding a meeting in a field next to the railroad.

He steered off to one side and then made a bold dart right in among them. Away they flew in every direction and in a moment were jeering at him from the bushes. He sprang up into the air and sailed round and round, very hungry and in a discontented frame of mind.

The meeting of the little fellows resumed its session, and one small speaker made a brave speech about not caring for anything. He could get out of the way at any time. He was not the one to be afraid of——

Just then a train rushed by on the railroad and the meeting adjourned in a hurry. The speaker tumbled from the fence-rail and the audience scampered off quite demoralized by fright.

"Ha! ha!" remarked the hawk. "That gives me an idea! I'll have regular breakfasts after this."

He looked up and down the railroad for miles in each direction and saw a train coming. He flew that way and soon met it tearing along with a great noise and much smoke. It was a trifle alarming at first, but he bravely followed it and found he could easily keep up with the cars, though the smoke made his eyes smart. He flew close behind the last car, right in the smoke and dust where he could not be seen. As the train rushed along, he could see the small birds scattering away on each side, frightened out of their wits by the noise and smoke.

Swoop! The train rushed on and sly Mr. Hawk clapped his claws on a sparrow and then flew leisurely away to enjoy his breakfast.

* * * * * * *

Every one within a mile was on hand at the great indignation meeting at Cranberry Hollow. Blue and gray and black and red breasts—in fact, every little thing on wings in that part of the country.

It was dreadful! Perfectly shameful. The hawks had devised a horrible, a wicked trick. They flew behind railroad trains, and when the little birds were half frightened out of their wits and tried to run away in confusion, the hawks darted out from behind the cars and, pouncing upon the poor innocents, actually ate them up! Such a state of affairs could not be tolerated. It was monstrous, tyrannical, and very wicked on the part of the hawks. Resolutions declaring the practice an unfair one, and calling for its suppression, must be drawn up and sent by mail to all the railroad men, and copies must be presented to the hawks.

Just then a venerable tomtit rose in the meeting and remarked in a severe manner that, for his part, he thought they had just cause for indignation. The resolutions were highly proper and should be signed by all, but—reminding his hearers of the well-known fable of the rats, the bell, and the cat—he would like to ask who was to deliver the paper to the hawks.

A solemn hush fell on the assembled congress. Not a peep was raised. It was so until you could have heard a pin-feather drop.

Suddenly there was a rush, a roar and a blinding cloud of smoke. The committee had incautiously called the meeting too close to the railroad, and the assembly suddenly broke up in the wildest disorder and confusion.

Two minutes later a savage hawk with cruel claws was seated on the fence enjoying a breakfast and waiting for the next train, that he might repeat his wicked tricks.

Such is bird life!—Charles Barnard, in St. Nicholas.

Coughed up a Lizard.

Lucky for the Man, as He Would Soon Have Died.

Elisha Hotchkiss, of Preston, Pa., has astounded the medical fraternity about him by disgorging a live lizard seven inches long from his stomach.

The man has suffered with stomach pains for some years, and thinks he drank the lizard when it was quite small in water several years ago. Since he dislodged the creature Hotchkiss has gained in strength, he says, and feels easier.

To vouch for his story Mr. Hotchkiss has the lizard in alcohol preserved to show the incredulous. Physicians say that the man would soon have died had he not coughed up the lizard, as he was greatly emaciated.

Music in the Air.

There never was so much music and so many musical instruments at the Fair as has been seen there this year. While there are many fine exhibits in this line it seems but just to state that in many respects that of J. W. Gurnsey surpassed them all. His booth is arranged the most artistically, which with the beautiful designs in cases and elegant frames, used in construction together with the fine finish present a view beautiful for the eye to behold; while the tone of both the Sohmer and Mehlin pianos is something not approached by any other maker. Add to this the most courteous treatment which is extended to all patrons of this house together with the great purchasing power by being able to buy for cash and in large lots, all of which advantages are given to the customer, and it would seem no one could hesitate as to the proper place to buy a piano or organ. It can be very wisely summed up as follows, in dealing with this house a customer will get the best goods at the lowest prices on the easiest terms and receive the kindest treatment.—Bloomsburg Daily, Oct. 16.

WILKES-BARRE, PA., October 22, 1896.

Have you made a selection of your New Fall Jacket? If not, have this well in mind. The best is none too good, for it is said a cloak covers a multitude of sins; sins of the manufacturer in making cloaks of poor materials. Making a garment up to sell and not to wear is a sin many have to answer for. Our garments are made of the best materials, of the best workmanship. They are the kind that look fresh and new after a season's wear. It pays to buy this kind for the satisfaction they bring you. We can sell you a Cloak, Jacket or Cape at a very moderate price. We have others that are are more costly, but all are as good as money can purchase; better than most grades usually sold. Orders by mail filled subject to return if unsatisfactory; send us your correct bust and sleeve measurement. We have thousands to select from, all new, all the latest styles.

Ladies' Jackets made of fine all wool cheviot, with puff sleeves and new style back, are sold by us at $3.48.

Ladies' Jackets of all wool beaver, in black and navy, made with the modern shield front, are $4.98.

Ladies' Jackets in all wool kersey, in blue or black, very handsomely made, with shield front, new slash collar and turn back cuffs, would be considered by many a bargain at $10; we sell them at $7.48.

Ladies' Capes made of all wool kersey cloth, the latest cut, with full sweep, are $6.98.

Ladies' Capes made of heavy astrachan cloth, beautifully trimmed, lined throughout with silk, stylish, rich and comfortable, sold at $9.98.

Ladies' Capes made of fine seal plush, richly lined with silk and edged with thibet, are a special offering at $10.98.

Misses' and Children's made in the same careful manner as our Ladies' Jackets, with all the attention to minute details; range in size from 4 to 16 years. They come in fancy boucle, cheviot and beaver cloths, plain colors and fancy mixtures, range in price upward from $2.98.

Write for samples of our double width fancy cheviot and plaid Dress Goods that we are offering at the yard 12½c.

Our 36-inch all wool cloth and 36-inch all wool serges cannot be duplicated in the State at the price—per yard 25c.

A new assortment of novelty Dress Goods in the popular and stylish mohair and wool overshot effects are this week 39c.

Double Width Eiderdown in all shades is sold at 44c.

Our 24-inch Black Faille Francaisse Silks are worth much more than the price we ask—samples on application—the yard 69c.

27-inch Black Duchesse Satin, needs no comment, you know the goods, the price is lower than these fabrics have sold in years, for this week our price is 89c.

We will close out a large assortment of printed warp novelty silks, valued at $1.00 the yard to $1.25. at a uniform price of 49c. You should write for samples of these at once, as the lot cannot last long at the price.

Our $17.46 Sewing Machine is manufactured for our firm specially by one of the leading factories of the country. It will do as good work and is as handsome as a $60.00 machine; high arm; all attachments warranted fully for five years.

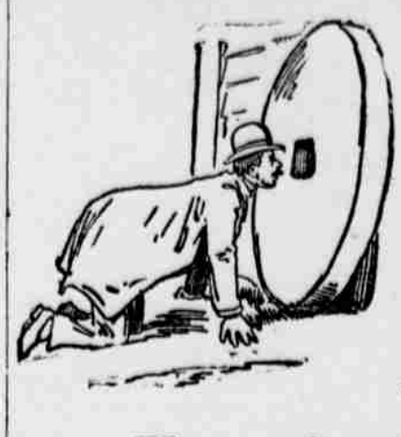
SEEING THROUGH A MILLSTONE



is no trick to a man with good eyes, but it doesn't make any difference how large the hole is, or how strong the glasses are to him, who has neglected his eyesight.

There are no glasses which will make the blind see, but people who have their eyes properly fitted with glasses in time will never have any trouble.

We guarantee a perfect fit or money refunded.
